Imagine being able to capture the traditional look and feel of darkroom prints with all the convenience of modern inkjet technology.

Baryta Photographique combines the aesthetics of a bygone era with a paper that shows excellent black density, subtle grey tones and precise image detail. It's perfect for black and white photography and punchy colour reproduction.

Bright white in colour, Baryta Photographique uses the same formula as traditional silver halide papers, is acid free and designed to meet the demanding archival standards of museums, galleries and libraries.
